

2012 Canadian Computing Competition Results

Commentaires Commentaires

The 2012 CCC was a year of expansions, simplifications and new initiatives.

In terms of expansions, the registrations for the CCC increased by 20the last few years. Thanks to all of those participants, both new and returning.

In terms of simplifications, the averages on the contest were much higher, since we intended to make the contests much more approachable, both in the Junior and Senior categories. Overall, I am happy that so many Junior students got a score of 60/75 or better. You will see a large "clump" of results in Group 4 of the Junior results. In other words, don't print this document on paper unless you really need to!

In terms of new initiatives, 2012 (and late 2011) saw a few firsts. The CEMC undertook the Beaver Computing Competition (BCC), which is intended to get interested math students to consider trying out programming. We have also launched "CS Circles", which is a way to learn Python, which would be a very good language to program the CCC in. And, finally, we launched a pilot version of the on-line CCC grader that many of the Senior competitors tried out this year. We will be launching a Canada-wide version in Fall 2012, both for practice and for writing the actual CCC in Feburary 2013. All of these new items can be found at:

www.cemc.uwaterloo.ca

We continued the collaboration with Tsinghua University in Beijing and the University of Hong Kong to offer the contest to Beijing and Hong Kong high school students. These competitors are not listed here (since we are listing only the Canadian Competitors). More information (including results) can be found at: http://ccc.cs.tsinghua.edu.cn/and http://www.cs.hku.hk/ccc2012/. This year, the organizers from Tsinghua and HKU collaborated with UW to create a contest different than the Canadian CCC.

Below, a qualitative summary of both the Junior and Senior contest is presented.

I hope you found the contest this year interesting and educational, fun and intriguing. Thanks for being a part of it.
